

Stephen Partney, Mining Engineer

Dam Safety

Most of my career has been as an expert in dam construction, maintenance, and operation. In mining, dams are used primarily in waste disposal, but some dams have been constructed for water supply in the past. Hazard evaluation and risk factors are usually the authority of the state, unless the dam is federally controlled or on tribal land. I am the MCR representative on the dam safety committee.